HOW THE OWNER IS ASKED

The owner gets a text the moment the outage is detected:

Resy is down at Lindenwood. 36 guests tonight. Reply YES to text, email and call them to confirm, or NO to skip.

Or they approve here with channel-by-channel control.

CAN BE STOPPED ANY TIME

A Pause button stays on the live sheet. Pausing stops new messages; replies already coming in are still recorded.

Lindenwood · (212) 555-0147

Hi Jordan, this is Maya, manager at Lindenwood. Our reservation system is down, but luckily we have this morning's list of bookings. We have you tonight at 7:30 PM:

PARTY 4
ALLERGY shellfish
OCCASION anniversary

Reply Y if that's right, N to cancel.

To change something, reply with just that line, e.g. PARTY 5

No cancellation fee while our system is down. Prepaid? I'll follow up personally. You can also call us or email reservations@lindenwood.example

PARTY 5
ALLERGY shellfish, sesame

Got it: party of 5, shellfish and sesame noted.
See you at 7:30!

Status colors: staff always win

Every cell on the living sheet has one of three colors. The color tells staff what needs attention and tells the system what it is allowed to change.

Red

Not acted on yet

No reply, a call still queued, or a reply the system couldn't read (free text, special requests).

Staff: look at these first

Green

Received by the system

The guest replied Y, N or a change line and the sheet updated itself.

System may update again

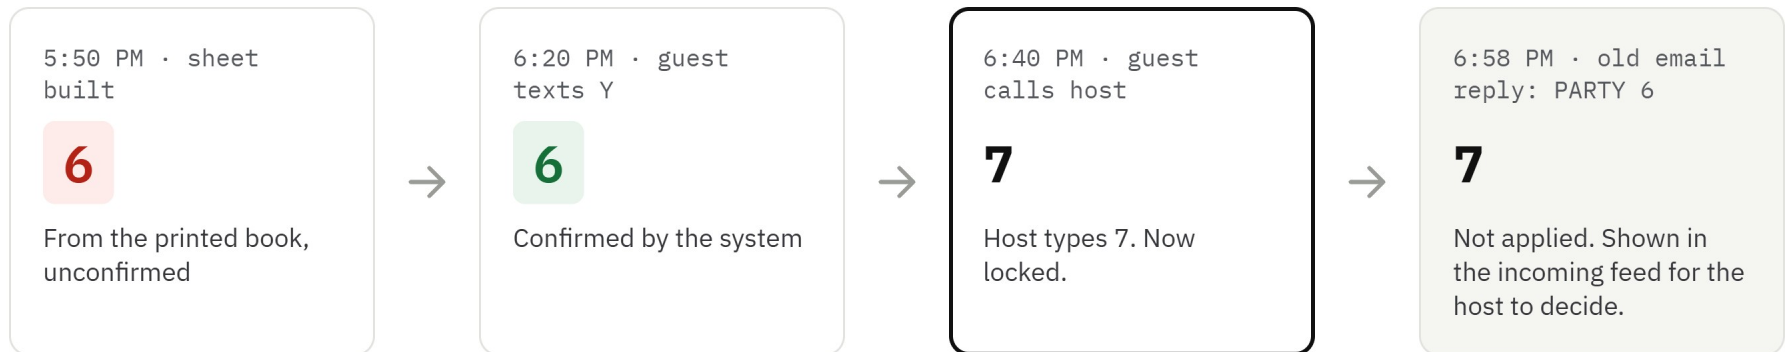

Black

Set by staff, locked

A host or manager typed into the cell. The system can never overwrite it.

Read-only for the system

ONE CELL OVER THE NIGHT · MARCUS WEBB, PARTY SIZE

The one rule

The system writes only to red and green cells. Once a person edits a cell it turns black, and any later guest reply for that cell becomes a note in the incoming feed instead of a change.
